DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Peterson et al (6,904,143).

Consider claim 17, Peterson et al teach a computer program product including computer executable instructions stored on a computer readable medium, wherein the instructions, when executed by the computer, cause the computer to perform: creating supporting information that supports response communication for an operator using the operator terminal device based on the transmission-record information (col. 6 lines 52-63; col. 14 lines 35-42) including timing information transmitted to a user communication device in response to a user call (col. 15 lines 35-43, lines 53-54), wherein the transmitting of the transmission-record information includes transmitting the supporting information to the operator terminal device (col. 7 line 21 – col. 8 line 12). It should be noted that operator terminal device is read on by the analyst terminal or system.
